What single accomplishments are you most proud of and why?

There are many accomplishments I am proud of. Being an author, entrepreneur and most importantly a mother of 3 are at the top of my list. There are also many more I plan to achieve. However, if I had to choose one, I believe the launch of my company Cashmere & Vine Interiors in Florida is one that I am extremely proud of.

After owning a successful design business for 20 years in Michigan, I moved to South Florida, rebranded, and rebuilt my company from the ground up again. Today, Cashmere & Vine Interiors has grown immensely, placing my company on the list of Top 10 South Florida Designers in only 5 years, and we have so much more to offer as we continue to grow!

What sets you apart from other designers here in South Florida?

My midwestern values, as well as my strong work ethic really sets me apart from other designers in South Florida. Growing up in Michigan, I come from an industry where we take extreme pride in our businesses, swiftly providing the absolute best service to our clients. Therefore, building strong relationships with my clients and ensuring that they receive the best service is a top priority at Cashmere & Vine Interiors.

What charities are you involved in and why?

I am always willing to donate my time and talents to multiple charities, more frequently with the American Cancer Society. Currently, I am planning to launch my own non-profit organization called Sweet Suite Dreams. This charity will create well designed, functional, resting and healing spaces for children with chronic and terminal illness. We aim to create spaces for children that will not only represent their dream room, but also addresses their physical and emotional needs.
